P. G. HOLDEN LEFT FOR EAST SATURDAY NIGHT

Has Been Holding Short Courses In Utah And Idaho—Pleased With Progress of Work

Prof. P. G. Holden, who has been in Maryville for several days conferring with Bert Cooper, superintendent of schools; President Ira Richardson, of the State Teachers College and Geo. Pickens, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, left Saturday night for the East.

Professor Holden was delighted with the schools of Utah. "They are the best in the United States," he said. "Every child from 12 years old to 18 years old must be in school. If he must assist in the support of the family then he must attend part time school. The result of this is that it has virtually doubled the attendance in the high schools. The school children are supervised during the summer and his promotion in the fall depends upon his summer work as well as that done the previous spring and winter. The health of the preschool children is supervised, as well as the health of the children in school. The percentage of truancy is smaller in Utah than any place I know. Cigarettes are not allowed to be sold and in some communities children, who use tobacco can not be graduated from school.

"They are taking up the vitalized agriculture work in the schools of Utah as well as in Idaho and the Dakotas. I have been holding two-day short courses in Utah and am much pleased with the way they are taking hold of the work."

TENSITY OF AMERICAN-JAPAN QUESTION REVEALED TODAY

Public Statement of Correspondence Made—Japan Says Island Is Hers—Matter Closed.

Washington April 18, —The tensity of the situation existing between America and Japan over the island of Yap was revealed officially today for the first time when the state department made a public statement of the entire correspondence between the two governments consisting of three American and two Japanese notes exchanged during the last six months. America is adamant in his refusal to concede that Japan is entitled exclusively to possession of the small but highly important island and Japan has clung stubbornly to the assertion that Yap was awarded her by the supreme allied council and that the matter is thus a closed chapter. The correspondence of both nations has been very curt in tone.

NEW SENATORIAL DISTRICT MADE

FIRST COMPOSED OF COUNTIES WITH 103,911 POPULATION

WILL BE REPUBLICAN

Districts Will Comprise Nodaway, Atchison, Andrew, Holt, DeKalb, Gentry and Worth Counties

New state senatorial districts were laid out Saturday by Governor Hyde, Secretary of State Charles U. Becker and Attorney General Jesse W. Barrett to take the place of the present districts, which were laid out by Democratic state officials twenty years ago. The new districts will stand, it was stated, upon the vote cast for State Superintendent of Schools in 1918, twenty Republicans and fourteen Democratic districts.

The districting was performed by Hyde, Becker and Barrett under a constitutional provision which provides that when the legislature fails to act the state officials shall make a districting. The plan to leave the redistricting to the state officers was agreed upon among the Republican leaders to obviate the suspension of the districting by referendum.

The first district is composed of Nodaway, Atchison, Andrew, Holt, DeKalb, Gentry and Worth. The present population of this district is 103,911. The Republican majority in 1918 of these counties was 646. This district is now composed of Nodaway, Atchison Worth and Gentry.

St. Louis, April 18.—Nathaniel Johnson, negro, has confessed, according to police, that he killed Anna Allen 95-year-old negress, who was found Tuesday in Morgan street rooming house with her throat slashed from ear to ear. The Story of Our States

By JONATHAN BRACE

XXIV.—MISSOURI

WHETHER Missouri was actually visited by De Soto at the time of his discovery of the Mississippi is not definitely known. The first authentic exploration of this territory was by the French, Joliet and Father Marquette in 1673. French settlers gradually located in Missouri, in 1764 St. Louis being settled. This was one year after Spain acquired from France the Louisiana Territory of which Missouri was a part.

Colonization greatly increased after the ordinance of 1787, which excluded slavery from the Northwest territory, as this naturally deflected many to the territory west of the Mississippi who otherwise would have settled in the north. The slavery question continued to hold the stage in Missouri history. After the Louisiana Purchase in 1803 added this vast western area to the United States, emigration increased to such an extent that in 1820 Missouri formed a state government and applied for admission to the Union. Bitter antagonism immediately arose in congress against the addition of another slave state. On the other hand the slavery adherents pointed out that Maine had just been taken into the Union as a free state and one state would therefore balance the other. A final settlement was made by the famous Missouri compromise, which accepted Missouri as a slave state but prohibited slavery in the rest of the territory north of a line extending from the southern boundary of Missouri to the Rocky Mountains. Indeed, it was this agitation which, temporarily smothered at that time, burst forth in the Civil war.

Missouri is in the forefront of the important states in national politics as it has eighteen electoral votes for president. Its area is 69,420 square miles.

SHAW SAYS WHAT HE WOULD DO IF WOMAN

Nation That Does Not Guarantee Nurture of Children Does Not Deserve to Have Them

London, April 18.—In a letter to Judge Henry Neil, of Chicago, Bernard Shaw expresses himself as follows:

"I have said that if I were a woman I should refuse to bear a child for less than $10,000, and that a nation that will not guarantee the proper nurture of its children does not deserve to have them.

"I have also said that we should not sterilize the excellent old Betsy Trotwoods, who would have children and bring them up well if they had not to pay the price of having a man thrust upon them as well.

"I do not forget that a house without a man in it is not an ideal home for a growing boy or girl; but as the average house is a house without a man in it (he being at work all day), the school or other social agencies could do almost as much as the father now has any chance of doing.

"The woman risks her life, and that is quite as much as she can be reasonably expected to undertake even with a full guarantee that she shall not have it crying to her in vain for food whilst Perkingese dogs are eating cutlets in the next street."

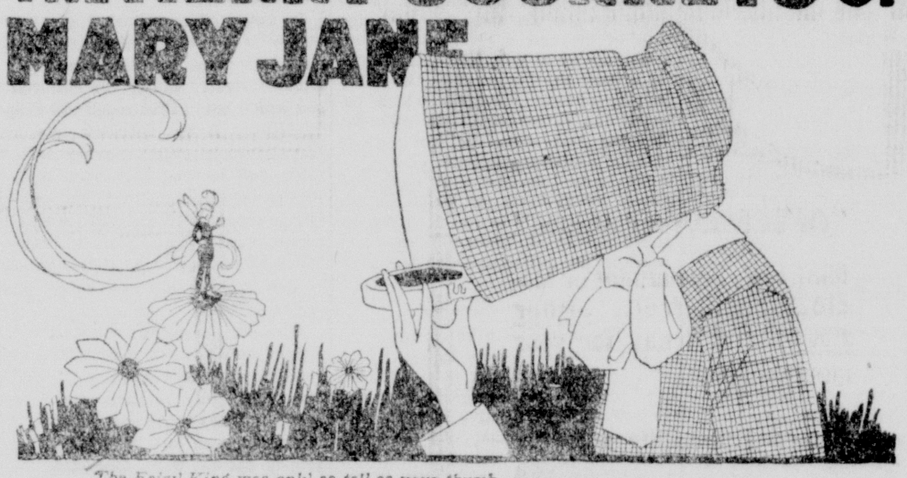
THE MERRY JOURNEYS OF MARY JANE



The Fairy King was only as tall as your thumb but he had a good appetite

Mary Jane and the Fairy King

ONE day Mary Jane met the Fairy King in the Forest. The Fairy King was only as tall as your thumb. But he had a very good appetite, and he was always hungry.

So he said to Mary, "Did you bring anything good to eat with you?" And Mary said, "I've got a lovely spread of bread with some de-li-cious Mary Jane Syrup on it, that my mamma gave me for my lunch."

The Fairy King said, "Well, why didn't you say so before? You know that Mary Jane Syrup is what we fairies always serve at our banquets, when we want something es-pe-cial-ly good."

So Mary brought out her bread with Mary Jane Syrup on it. And they sat and ate, and talked about ships and sealing wax, and cabbages and kings until it was time for Mary to go home.

Then the Fairy King gave Mary a great, big diamond that he found on a rose leaf that very morning. Mary had the diamond mounted in a ring. And she's wearing it to this very day, in memory of the Fairy King, and the Mary Jane Syrup they enjoyed so much that afternoon of the long ago, when the heart of a child thrilled to the magic of a fairy's kingly gift.

Keep The Egg Basket Full!

The feed elements that make whites of eggs are entirely different from those that make yolks. When hens aren't fed both the white and yolk making elements, they can't keep the egg basket full. The usual method of feeding mostly grain makes yolks but not enough whites to complete the eggs.

Missouri Experiment Station tests prove that 100 lbs. of wheat, corn, oats, barley and kaffir corn make (above bodily maintenance) an average of 224 yolks to 154 whites. Based on data from the same experiments, Purina formulas produce, (above bodily maintenance) as follows:

	Yolks	Whites
Purina Hen Chow	247.49	142.11
Purina Chicken Chowder	182.05	282.55
Combined Ration	429.54	424.66

These Purina chows not only make a practically equal number of whites and yolks but more of both than ordinary chows.

Note that Purina Chicken Chowder contains the necessary white-forming elements to balance up the yolk-making grain ration. That's why it makes hens lay so heavily. Instead of the yolks being absorbed by the hen's system, Purina Chicken Chowder makes the whites to complete the eggs and they are laid. Thus we can absolutely guarantee more eggs or money back on Purina Chicken Chowder if fed with Purina Hen Chow as directed. You take no risk.

TICKETS FOR "QUALITY STREET" MAY BE HAD FROM PHILOS

Costumes Are Picturesque — Those Worn in 1814—Miss Mary Mac Leod Is Coaching Dancing.

The tickets for the play "Quality Street" which the students at the college will give April 28 under the direction of Miss Blanche Dow, instructor in French and dramatics are now on sale and may be had from any of the Philomathean Literary Society. "This is the biggest thing yet attempted by the students in the way of a play," said Miss Dow. "The fact that it is a Barrie play should draw many.

"The costumes are picturesque, those worn in 1814. Lieben of Kansas City is making the men's costumes while Miss Mary Quinlan is making the girls' Miss Mary MacLeod is coaching the dancing, while Miss Olive De Luce has charge of the stage arrangements. The orchestra under the direction of C. D Kutschinski will play.

"The proceeds from the play will be used by the Philomatheans for the support of two French orphans. The rehearsals are being held frequently. There is a bigger chance for the girls in Quality Street than for the men but both are good. Miss Faye Townsend as Phoebe promises to be especially lovely."

DEMAND SYSTEM OP HARD ROADS IN STATE

Big Road Meeting in Excelsior Springs Urges Legislature to Carry Out Provisions of No. 6.

Excelsior Springs, April 18.—About one hundred representatives from various counties in the 2d, 3d, 4th and 5th congressional districts of Missouri met here last week and unanimously passed the following resolution:

Whereas, the voters of Missouri, by a majority of 233,000, adopted Amendment No. 6, providing for the construction of State System of hard roads connecting every county of the State and

Whereas, a Special Session of the Legislature is soon to be called by Governor Hyde for the purpose of enacting suitable laws to carry out the expressed desire of the people and the provisions of Amendment No. 6.

Therefore, Be It Resolved by the representatives of the Missouri Good Roads Federation from the 2d, 3d, 4th and 5th Congressional districts of Missouri in meeting assembled, that we urge the Missouri Legislature, in Special Session to be assembled, to enact a law designating the State System of Highways, and that the construction of the roads be left to a bipartisian Commission of Four or more and that said Commission, together with the State Highway Engineer, be authorized to determine the type of road to be used on each Highway, taking into account the traffic needs of each road.

Resolved, that a copy of these Resolutions be sent to the press and a copy be sent to the Members of the Legislature, together with a report of the proceedings of this meeting, including the names and addresses of all delegates in attendance.

KEEP TO THE STRAIGHT PATH

Aimless Explorations on Life's Journey Mean the Squandering of Time and Energy.

No matter what the way is in life you must keep on going to get somewhere. The greater the delights of the way, the slower will be the progress. The bee that sips from every flower may be a long time collecting his load of honey. The wise bee goes straight to the honey flowers and to the place of their greatest abundance. The child that loiters by the road side is usually chided when he reaches the journey's end. You may escape the chiding, but nature and time will charge you with delinquency. To be abreast of your ability you must keep on going. Put your head to work and your feet will carry you in the right direction, and regulate your conduct when you reach the goal. There is too much at stake to squander time and energy on aimless explorations. Learn what your goal in life is to be and then see to it that you make every ounce of energy contribute towards its realization. Chart your life and the course it should follow and then make every day bring you nearer to the desired achievement. You are bound to succeed if you learn how to pass the dividing of the ways.—Grit.

WORLD ALMOST LOST GENIUS

Handel, Immortal Composer, Had Remarkable Escape From Death in Duel in Early Life.

The great composer Handel was born at Halle, February 24, 1684, and at the outset of his professional life, which was about his twentieth year, he was nearly lost to the world by a quarrel with one Matthewson, an able musician, who violently assaulted him. A duel ensued, and nothing but a score buttoned under Handel's coat and on which his antagonist's weapon broke, saved his life, which was destined to prove of inestimable value to the whole world.

In performing on the organ his command of the instrument was amazing, as was the fullness of his harmony and the grandeur and dignity of his style. Handel wore an enormous white wig, and when things went well at the oratorios it had a certain nod or vibration which denoted his satisfaction and pleasure. Without this signal it was certain that he was out of humor.

He never married and died possessed of $100,000, of which he bequeathed one-half to the fund for decayed musicians, while the remainder went to his relatives.—Chicago Journal.

Far Away and Long Ago.

The brewers' parade in New York city in 1788 has never been duplicated. There were hogsheads entwined in hop vines and a live Bacchus was the feature of the marching fete. But such a procession did once wend its way through New York streets, in celebration of the adoption of the federal constitution. One historian says in part:

"The display of the brewers was happily conceived and appropriate. In addition to their banners fluttering gayly in the air, they paraded cars with hogsheads and tuns, decorated with festoons of hop vines intertwined with handfuls of barley. Seated on the top of a tun was a living Bacchus—a beautiful boy of eight years—dressed in flesh-colored silk, fitted snugly to the limbs, and thus disclosing all his fine symmetrical proportions. In his hand he held a silver goblet, with which he quaffed the nut-brown, and on his head was a garland of hops and barley ears."

Many Classes of Dreams.

There are several distinct classes of dreams, which are: The confusing fantastic dreams; dreams we receive as a warning to be on guard; some dreams are created through our nervous system when something is not in order in our body. These may come after eating heavy meals before bedtime, cold feet, etc. These dreams are to bring our reasoning power to action. Some dreams are created through the power of fear. Then we have the prophetic dreams. One kind of dreams—we believe they are dreams—are in actuality not dreams, but actual experiences of the ego, which leaves the body when at sleep and travels on in the mental world.

Take "Movies" Seriously.

Moving pictures are a marvel to the South Sea islanders, according to a recently returned visitor to that portion of the globe. The tragic part of the film is too much for the natives, he said, and there is so much weeping and groaning that a man has to go up in the gallery and tell them that it will all come out all right in the end. Thus assured, the audience proceeds to wipe up and watch for further developments, and when the heroine is rescued and the villain is thwarted, pandemonium breaks loose, for the people not only shout, but dance with joy.

Since Ladies Smoke.

"Your wife used to object to your smoking."

"Yes," replied Mr. Meekton. "That was before Henrietta became so interested in great public questions. Now she has me light a pipe now and then so that when she makes a speech she won't mind the cigarette smoke in the audience."

Child Hygiene Work of General Interest.

A report on a year's work in child hygiene carried on by C. P. Knight, of the U. S. Public Health Service in cooperation with the State Board of health of Missouri and with all private associations interested in the work shows the results of much general interest.

In sundry cities a house to house canvass was made to determine the percentage of birth registration, the sanitary conditions of the home, the amount of milk used, the relative income, and the relations between prenatal influence and infant mortality. The parents were greatly interested in the work and helped unhesitatingly. Better health supervision of young children and the correction of much improper eating and sleeping habits resulted.

In other cities school hygiene was begun by weighing and measuring the children. The results stirred up a friendly rivalry among the children to see which could first reach the proper average. Many mothers attended talks given to parent-teacher associations, and learned that when a child was underweight (7 to 10 percent below average) and did not gain as he should (half a pound a month between 8 and 12 years of age) it was probably due to some physical defect or to faulty living.

With the mothers' consent underweight children were examined physically; and both child and mother were questioned in each others presence. Many physical defects and faults, such as late bed time and improper eating were disclosed. Suggestions as to how the troubles might be rectified were followed up by a public health nurse, who visited the homes and urged the remediable measures. Everywhere both parents and physicians warmly cooperated in the work.

Rural school surveys showed that though the country child has the advantage of fresh air and out-door life he usually sleeps with closed windows and subsists, especially in fall and winter, on pork, hot biscuits, gravy and sorghum. In the summer he has home-grown vegetables. Adenoids and decayed teeth pass unnoticed or are neglected because of lack of facilities.

Demands from many parents that their children be weighed and measured led to the opening of numerous child health centers, to which clinics for teeth, eye, and orthopedic defects were added. A community nurse began classes for mothers and expectant mothers, teaching them to care for themselves and for their babies. Follow-up work included monthly letters to expectant mothers and, later, a similar series on the care of the baby. By this means interest in birth registration was aroused and data obtained for supplying it.

How MICHELIN has overcome the commonest causes of tire trouble

VIOLENT BRAKING

If brakes are violently applied, tires called upon to check within a few yards the entire momentum of the car.

Michelins stand up better than other tires under such punishment. The unique toughness of the black Michelin tread gives these tires unequalled wear-resistance. The extra traction-surface of the Michelin tread minimizes wear by distributing the wear over a greater area. And the extra thickness of the Michelin tread makes both these forms of protection effective.

The harder the service, the more important that you have Michelins.
